NEVADA.

AUSTIN, April 1.—The Reveille of this morning contains the following: From Dietrich Osterhaus, who came this evening from Smoky valley, we get the particulars of a dreadful tragedy which occurred in that locality on Sunday about 1 o'clock. Osterhaus' nearest neighbor was a German named Christian Eckstein, and has lived in the valley for the past two years, occupying with his wife and two children aged two and three years a small stone cabin on a patch of hay land. Of late Eckstein and his wife have quarreled frequently, owing to the husband's jealousy of a young man named Norton, who was herding a few cattle in the neighborhood. The neighbors paid no attention to the quarrels of the pair as they had become of two frequent occurrence to be noticeable. Eckstein was known to be naturally of a quarrelsome disposition and had made frequent threats that he would kill both Norton and his wife, but none of the people in the vicinity entertained suspicion that he would carry his threats into execution. On Sunday last Osterhaus had occasion to pass Eckstein's cabin with his team, and noticing an unusual stillness hung about the place, halted his team and knocked at the door of the cabin. His summons meeting no response, he was about to remount his wagon, thinking the family had gone to town. By an impulse for which he can't account he took a second thought and pushed open the door, when a horrible sight met his gaze. On the floor lay the half nude body of Mrs. Eckstein covered with blood, her features hacked beyond recognition—the skull being cut almost in twain. At her feet lay her two little girls with their heads nearly severed from their bodies. Across the bed lay the bodies of two men clasped in the embrace of death. They were the bodies of Norton and Eckstein. In the hand of the latter was clutched with the vice-like grip of death a large bowie knife covered with blood, and by the side of Norton lay a large sized dragoon revolver, four chambers of which had been discharged. The terrible sight nearly paralyzed Osterhaus, who for a short time was almost incapable of action. As soon as he came to himself he aroused the neighbors, among whom the wildest excitement prevailed over the affair. A Justice of the Peace was summoned from Ophir Canyon, but up to the time our informant left no verdict had been rendered. He gave his testimony on the inquest, but urgent business in this city necessitated his immediate departure. He promises further particulars on his return home. Eckstein was a man about 45 years of age and his wife about 2[illegible]. She is represented as having been quite [illegible] and some[illegible]. Norton was a young man about [illegible] years of age and a native of Mis[illegible].

MULLETT'S CHRONIC DEFICIENCY.—A Washington dispatch of March 2[illegible] says: The House Committee on Appropriations, on the statement of Architect Mullett regarding the deficiencies in appropriations for repairs, furniture and fuel in public buildings throughout the country, have agreed to insert in the deficiency bill an item amounting to $1[illegible]0,000 for these purposes, also $20,000 for the Bureau of Statistics and $15,000 for Hayden's geographical surveys.

In spite of all our pains—
Which may be why our Cushing finds
It hard to hold his Gaines.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—The name of the man who killed himself to-day on Clementina street was Thomas Bird, not Burr, as first reported. He cut his throat with an ordinary pocket knife.

The ladies are to hold a meeting Monday afternoon to consider the question of dress reform.

California street was animated to-day on account of the marked rise in mining stocks.

Mrs. Julia [illegible], actress, and husband sailed for Los Angeles to-day.

James S. Urquhart, who has been in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph office here for about 15 years, and for several years manager in the office, has resigned. John K. Yontz, an old and experienced operator, succeeds Mr. Urquhart.

Greenbacks 88[illegible].

The ladies have decided to hold another temperance mass meeting at the Tabernacle on Thursday of next week.

Thos. Bearr, a machinist, killed himself to-day on Clementina street, by cutting his throat with a razor. No cause is known for the suicide.

Last evening a boy named Wm. Brady fell from a raft into a pond in Presidio reservation, and was drowned. The body was recovered.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—To-night Coroner Rice resumed the inquest in the case of the artist Fredrick, who shot himself last Sunday near the Cliff House. Mr. Webber, who was present at the time of suicide, described the incidents of the affair as before reported. Mrs. Horton, a stylish looking lady, who assisted in destroying Fredrick's letters after his death, was called as a witness. The Coroner finally asked her if she ever wrote any letters to him or received letters from him. She hesitated, her husband being present, and declined to answer. The Coroner insisted; she persisted in silence, and he adjourned the inquest, telling her that if she were a man he would punish her for contempt.

An inquest in the case of the suicide Thos. Bird will be held to-morrow.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—The Jewish feast of the Passover commenced this evening. Services were held in most of the synagogues, and sacrificial repasts called "seder" in nearly every Jewish family.

A number of ladies have taken up the question of dress reform, and will hold a meeting next Monday at Anthony's Hall to discuss the subject.

Receipts at the Custom House during March were $650,316.

Weather to-night cold and foggy. Navigation of the bay is dangerous.

Ellen Reddine was found to-day lying dead in Bull Run alley. Intemperance was the probable cause of her death.

Destructive Fire in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—A destructive fire occurred this morning on the corner of Sacramento and Battery streets. It originated in Lane & Fricke's liquor store, No. 410 Sacramento street. The place was entirely enveloped in flames, the doors being red hot, were opened with difficulty, and when opened the firemen had an hour's hard battle with a sheet of flame. The entire stock was ruined. On the floor overhead was Louis Levy's paper box factory, which also gave way quickly to the fiery element. Liebes & Bowman occupied the ground floor, 404 Sacramento street, and the floor overhead as a cigar and tobacco factory, which also suffered very severely. No. 30[illegible] Battery street was occupied by Block & Davidson, dealers in fine leather, kids and moroccos; the stock was badly damaged, being flooded with water. The flames also spread to the Chinese cigar factory fronting on Commercial street. During the fire two Assistant Engineers met with accidents. Third Assistant Engineer Corbell was running up a ladder on Sacramento street, and the ladder not having a firm hold on the ground, it fell sideways. Corbell holding on came down with it and sprained his ankle in the fall. First Assistant Engineer Burckes, while working on the second floor of Liebes & Bowman's, fell through an opening, dropping heavily to the first floor. It is feared he has sustained injuries in the back. The loss will probably amount to $50,000, partly covered by insurance.

About 1 A. M. another fire occurred on Mission street, near Sixth, in the rear of a three story frame dwelling house, the lower portion of which was occupied by Apel, an upholsterer. The flames were soon extinguished, but the building was damaged to the extent of about $1,000.

The Assistant Engineers Corbell and Burkiss, injured at the fire on Battery street this morning, were not seriously hurt. Corbell is out already, but Burkiss will be confined to his room for several days.

Interior California.

SACRAMENTO, April 1.—It is reported the Railroad Company proposes very shortly to employ an extra force of 500 men at their shops here to repair damages to locomotives, cars, &c., occasioned by the snow blockade, and to get ready cars and engines for transportation of grain crops, which give promise of requiring all the means which can be rendered for shipment.

A large balloon, called International, has just been completed at the International Hotel in this city under the supervision of J. R. Whitehead and Professor Martin, aeronauts. Its capacity will be 25,000 feet of gas, and ascensions will be made from East Park, commencing Sunday, 12th inst.

OAKLAND, April 1.—There was not a very large attendance at the trotting park to-day. The race was for a purse of $300. Ella Lewis won three out of five heats. Time 2:[illegible]. [illegible] second. There will be a race every day this week, ending with a $300 twenty mile race.

SANTA CRUZ, April 1.—The daily stage between here and San Jose was stopped to-day on the mountain about half-way by a single man who was well masked and armed with a double barrelled shot gun and bowie knife, which swung from his waist. After covering the driver with the gun, he demanded Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express box, and still insisted after being told that there was no box aboard. Finally realizing that he must be disappointed in this, he said to the passengers: "Then you will have to shell out," which they did without ceremony, the whole amount not exceeding fifty dollars. There were six persons, including two ladies.

ARIZONA.

SAN DIEGO, April 1.—A [illegible] dated Tucson, April 1st, says Governor Safford to-day pardoned Adam Wiley, convicted of manslaughter a year ago in Mohave county by Judge Porter, before whom he was tried. Officers and leading citizens generally in Mohave and Yuma counties petitioned the Governor for his pardon.

Tony Grow[illegible], who killed his brother at Camp Grant last year, is now on trial for murder.

Each ant in an ant hill knows his [illegible]. Mr. Darwin [illegible] several times carried [illegible] from one hill to another [illegible] apparently [illegible] tens of thousands of [illegible], but the strangers were invariably [illegible] and killed. Thinking there might be a family odor by which they are recognized, he put [illegible] ant from a very large nest into a bottle strongly perfumed with assafoetida, and restored them after twenty-four hours. At first they were threatened by their companions, but soon recognized and allowed to pass.

On the Sound the farmers are preparing to enter into the raising of grain to a greater extent than heretofore, and more of their marsh lands are being drained and seeded to timothy grass. The ground is being prepared for potatoes and turnips, and if large fields of new ground are ready for cultivation they seed it with oats. It is pretty generally understood here that farmers are better prepared, have more land cleared and enter on their spring work with better spirit than ever before.

SALEM IN GENERAL

[FROM OUR TRAVELING CORRESPONDENT.]

SALEM, March 31, 1874.

Since my last letter several gentle showers have fallen, followed by bright sunshine, thereby keeping the soil in a favorable condition for plowing and sowing spring wheat, stimulating the growth of fall wheat and grass, and [illegible] of fruit trees.

There has not [illegible] progress lately in new building, nor is it likely to do much in that line this summer. The disputed titles by the heirs of the late [illegible] Wilson, eighteen months since, [illegible] improvements.

The farmers of the surrounding country and the county generally being in a prosperous condition, mechanics and tradesmen have all they can do in making all kinds of agricultural implements, furniture and material for house building to meet their wants. This is one of the signs of the times that indicates that Salem will not only hold its own as the capital of the State, but that it will in due time make great progress, and that Marion county is worthy of the honorable position that it occupies for the wealth, intelligence and refinement of the people.

THE WILLAMETTE WOOLEN MANUFACTURING CO.

Is a credit to its originators, an honor to the manufacturing interests of the State and of great importance to the industrial interests of Salem. It was organized in 1856, and is one of the most successful on the North Pacific coast.

The blankets, flannels, cassimeres, tweeds and other manufactures of the mill are in constant and increasing demand in Portland and San Francisco, and will compare favorably with any goods of a similar kind made in the Atlantic States or imported. The success of the mill is greatly owing to Mr. Joseph H. Hoyt, the Superintendent and managing agent of the Company. There are three of these woolen factories in the State. All of them successful and making [illegible] yards of material in the month.

THE PIONEER OIL COMPANY

Is another of the valuable industries of Salem. The company was organized in 1866, the mill was built and completed in 1867, and the first linseed oil made on this coast was manufactured at this mill on the 25th of December of that year. The beginning was small, but the increase has been considerable. Mr. Joseph Holman and George P. Holman have lately purchased the entire stock of the original company and are now the sole proprietors. Mr. George P. Holman is the able and efficient managing agent. The machinery is of the most improved kind and working to its full capacity at present to fill a large order for San Francisco. Since the beginning of the season 500 barrels of oil have been shipped to that market besides supplying the home demand. Last season the company paid the farmers of the State $75,000 for flaxseed, and this year they will pay them three times that amount, having contracts with 250 farmers who have 7,000 acres under flax crop. The company make a large quantity of flax seed oil cake that is becoming very popular as an article of feed for stock. The want of population is felt in this department, as well as in some other manufactures, for this mill, although the only one of the kind in the State, can make four times the quantity of oil required. The two linseed mills—this one and one in San Francisco—can make enough to supply the whole Pacific coast. The two mills make 500,000 gallons a year. The Salem mill manufactures 125,000 gallons per annum, while the demand in the State does not exceed 30,000 gallons. The oil made is of the highest grade, and free from all adulteration.

THE MANUFACTURE OF FLAX.

Hitherto flax has only been raised in this State for the seed, while the fibre, the most valuable part, has been neglected or considered worthless. Not so now, for Mr. J. L. Smith, a young gentleman from the North of Ireland, has rented about 100 acres of land in the neighborhood of Salem to raise flax with a view of testing the adaptation of the climate, soil and water to raise and mature the fibre adapted for the manufacture of linen and linen thread of all kinds, such as the North of Ireland is famous for. Should he be successful it will be of incalculable advantage to the farmers of the Willamette valley as a profitable industry. Mr. Smith has ample experience in the business. Mr. Watkinds of the penitentiary and many others have promised him valuable assistance to give the experiment a fair trial. Should it succeed, one crop of flax raised for both seed and fibre will pay better than three crops of wheat. There is an almost unlimited demand for flax in Great Britain. The markets of the world are laid under contribution to supply flax for the manufacturers of England, Ireland and Scotland.

The following is the number of acres under flax in Europe and America last year:

	Acres

THE POLITICAL SITUATION OF THE STATE

Is increasing in interest daily. The Republicans held their County Convention here on Saturday. All the delegates were present but two. Their public expressions of confidence in winning the county and State at the June election were strong, but the private opinion of well informed friends and members of the Convention reveals great internal weakness and want of confidence in the final result. The nomination of Mr. John Minto for the Legislature, a tried patriot and a leading friend of the Independent party, by the Convention, and then great anxiety to secure his acceptance of the nomination show a conscious weakness in their [illegible] moral strength. But Mr. Minto does not [illegible] friends. His nomination [illegible] the growing influence in favor of the Independent party in Marion county and the demand there [illegible] present for honest, unimpeachable men, who fear God and hate bribes.

The primaries of the Independents were held in the different precincts of Salem the same day. The attendance was more than average. At South Salem double the number were present that attended the Ring Republican primary at the same precinct. Scheming politicians were taught a lesson at the South Salem primary on Saturday that will be useful to them [illegible] corrupt [illegible]. On the motion of Mr. John Minto the following resolutions were passed unanimously and enthusiastically:

1. Resolved, That we are [illegible] whether State or national [illegible] the [illegible] of the people [illegible] to men in the [illegible] any [illegible] the [illegible].

2. We are [illegible] proper [illegible] protection [illegible] companies [illegible] engaged in carrying trade in commerce [illegible] legitimate pursuit [illegible] law.

3. We are opposed to the purchase of the locks at the falls of the Willamette by the State, but are in favor of carrying out the original contract in its full spirit and letter with the owners of said locks.

4. We are in favor of such legislation on the subject of the liquor traffic as will tend to secure the sober, industrious and innocent against the costs and consequences of its abuse. To that end we are in favor of both local option and civil damage laws which shall make the localities where intoxicating drink is sold responsible for the costs of prosecuting crimes of which drunkenness is a part, and make the vender responsible to the family of the drunkard for damages.

5. That as woman suffers most from the consequences of drunkenness, they should be allowed to vote on the subject of the liquor traffic.

[illegible] county [illegible] such an [illegible] will [illegible] to [illegible]. We want [illegible] law making [illegible] pledge made while canvassing for election.

It is said, on good authority, that the Independent Convention will invite Governor Grover and Judge McKinney to stump the State for the June election. If so, and they accept the invitation, it will give an immense impulse to the Independent cause and tend to secure the election of the State ticket. The prevailing impression among intelligent and candid men is that Marion county and the State will go for the Independents if the right men are put on county and State tickets. The irrepressible conflict between debauched politicians and the emancipation of the people from the control of corrupt rings and despotic parties is [illegible] marching along to its [illegible] victory.

NORTHWEST.

THE STATE PRINTING.

A PRACTICAL VIEW OF THE SUBJECT.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The proposition of the Albany Convention to remedy the printing evil by an amendment of the Constitution is cumbersome and of doubtful efficacy. It is not an easy matter to amend the Constitution, besides the contract system is easily perverted by combination of bidders, straw bids, etc. A more direct, if not equally effective remedy, is obtainable through a stringent statute prohibiting the practices commonly called "stealing," and enacting a fair reduction of rates. The easy practice of the two houses also, of ordering quantities of useless printing, needs reform. Let only such matter be ordered printed as is of real service, and such quantities as are actually needed. This measure alone will reduce the printing item fifty per cent.

This reminds me that the State printer is endeavoring to contract for the printing of the code, and reports that the bill against the State will amount to the enormous sum of $40,000. The Legislature was told it would be about one fourth that sum. But they ordered the printing of it to be let to the lowest bidder. The [illegible] appropriation for the printing is exhausted, and there is none for the code. The Secretary cannot draw his warrant until an appropriation is made. There is no certainty that the Legislature will ever make any, and it is certain it will never appropriate anything like $40,000. No publishing house is safe in doing the work and trusting to a future Legislature to appropriate for it. And it is so near the time of the meeting of the Assembly that the printing of this code had best be deferred till then, thus permitting a reconsideration of the matter. Besides, the acts and amendments of the approaching session can thus be incorporated in the new volume.

And a resolution of the Albany platform advocates an appropriation for the Sandy Wagon Road. I am afraid that the waste of a greater or lesser sum of money on this moonshine project is inevitable. Some people at the Dalles seem really to think the road will be of service, and a race of politicians and parties for the votes east of the mountains is likely to result in a wasteful appropriation for the so-called Sandy Wagon Road. But I cannot believe sensible men anywhere, east or west of the mountains, think such an expenditure desirable, or that the road, if built, will ever be kept open to travel in the winter season, or much used if it is. It strikes me as a most palpable though somewhat plausible humbug. Demagogism is likely to procure it an appropriation from the State, though it will be well if wiser counsels prevail to prevent it. It would seem that the last Legislature threw away money enough on wagon road frauds to answer for a decade.

HOW IT WAS DONE IN UMATILLA COUNTY.

A [illegible] NARRATES A NARRATIVE.

PENDLETON, March 28th, 1874.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The Republican County Convention met here to-day, not more than half the precincts being represented. Last night a caucus was held, and after considerable sharp-shooting a committee was appointed to draft resolutions expressing the views of the party in this county in reference to sending delegates to attend the State Convention. This morning, on coming together, it was found that a majority of the delegates were opposed to taking any part in that body, but were in favor of severing their connection with the party. Some few, however, of the strictest, and those who are drawing their supplies from the Government in consequence of their allegiance to party, were loud in their professions of love and reverence for the same.

Messrs. N. A. Cornoyer, Indian Agent, [illegible] Disosway, Deputy United States Marshal, J. H. Koontz, postmaster at Umatilla, and C. M. Mallory, nephew of Rufus Mallory (U. S. District Attorney), were elected to attend the State Convention, only a small portion of the delegates participating in the election—a majority having withdrawn. These delegates (except Mr. Cornoyer) will, I am satisfied, yet come in and support the Independent county ticket.

The people of this county are rising en masse and demanding that the people shall be represented by the people's choice; that they will no longer be led blindly to the slaughter, but will assert their independence and elect men to office having reference only to their honesty and capability, ignoring their former political record. The signs of the times are hopeful here at least. The Independents will carry this county by a larger majority than it was ever carried by the Democratic party. The people here have been robbed of their hard earnings by county officials, till to-day the county is bankrupt and $2[illegible],000 in debt. And so it is in every county where either of the old parties have a heavy majority. We are taxed here at the rate of 24 mills on the dollar, and yet we are in debt. The people are beginning to inquire what became of the money. Echo replies, "What?"

[illegible]

THAT PRIMARY.

[illegible], March [illegible], 1874.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The Republicans of Coal valley met at their place of voting March 21st for the purpose of electing some four or five delegates to attend the county convention to be held at [illegible]burg on March 28th. There being but three persons present it was thought best to call in some one to act as Chairman and Secretary. Accordingly W. K. Caldwell was invited to come and fill that position. Now, Mr. Caldwell is a Democrat, and has no sympathy with the Republican interests. After waiting about six hours two others [illegible] stepped in. The question of electing delegates arose. At the suggestion of W. K. Caldwell the following plan of election was adopted: Caldwell, the Democratic Chairman and Secretary, was to get five straws, then [illegible] Republicans there, one of them to be a short one. The person getting the short straw was to stay at home, the four getting the long straws to attend the County Convention. Mr. J. A. Kirkpatrick was the unfortunate one—having drawn the short [illegible] he had to stay at home. I give this as a new method of abbreviating business in our primaries. It may be needed in some of the precincts.

OBSERVER.

There is said to be a minister in Southern Oregon who has been married three times, his first two wives being sisters and his third wife was stepmother to his two first.

OREGON.

The Union county races will commence May 4th and continue [illegible] days. Lots of sport is anticipated.

A very enjoyable affair, gotten up by the ladies of Hubbard Station, Marion county, came off a few evenings since. It was a social dancing party.

A Washington Territory paper thus scandalizes one of our patriotic candidates for office: "More whisky, better whisky, cheaper whisky," is the platform of a popular Republican orator of Oregon.

The Statesman of last Tuesday says: John Minto has handed in a card, too late for publication to-day, in which he most respectfully declines the Republican nomination to be a candidate for Representative.

The LaGrande Sentinel (Democratic) says the platform of the Democracy is, outside of its pettifogging, good enough, and that the candidates are all well known except Mr. Laflow. That's what we call faint praise.

The La Grande stage which usually reaches Umatilla by 12 o'clock midnight did not arrive at that place until 10 o'clock Friday morning last week. The driver reports that there is more snow on the mountains than ever before and that the roads are in a horrible condition.

Mr. Bull, who has worked hard to build up the La Grande Sentinel during the past two years, and having been dispossessed of the material heretofore in use by him, has secured other type and press and will go right on with the paper. There is no more suppressing newspapers in this country.

The delegates from Jefferson to the Marion County Independent Convention are Chas. Miller, Frederick Stevers, Wm. Steward and Wm. Pitt; from Fairfield, J. N. Skaife, J. Foss and L. G. Magnes; from Butteville, D. P. Pendleton, W. H. Rees and J. D. J. Blevins; from LaBish, W. M. Collard, T. Goodrich and S. J. Brooks.

James Mason, who for some time has been employed on the farm of John Ladd near La Grande as a laborer, was Saturday week arrested by Sheriff Warnick by virtue of a requisition from the Governor of Washington Territory. He was detained in jail in La Grande until Friday, when Sheriff Griffin of Walla Walla county, who came over for the purpose, departed with the prisoner. Mason alleges that he is not guilty of any crime—the charge being the larceny of a horse which he sold at Lewiston.

The boats are moving lively on the Upper Willamette, as appears by the following from the Salem Statesman of Tuesday: The steamer Willamette Chief arrived from Portland yesterday afternoon with 150 tons of up freight and went to Corvallis. The Albany came down last evening with 120 tons of wheat for the Kinney mills and returned for another cargo. The Fannie Patton came up and took on ninety tons of flour for Oregon City. The Alice arrived from below and went to Corvallis.

The La Grande Sentinel tells this snake story: Billy Miner, while looking for cattle in the tules the other day, found what he was not looking for—a large mass of snakes all commingled. The mass was about one foot in thickness and four feet square. They were the common garter snake, and what caused them to so mingle human mind cannot conceive—but probably the snakes did. On the approach of two or three persons called to witness the spectacle the snakes rapidly disappeared in the earth.

John Ladd, of La Grande, was severely kicked Monday night by a hitherto gentle horse. He entered the stall without speaking while the horse's head was down. On seeing Mr. Ladd the horse became frightened and turned and began kicking furiously. Mr. Ladd endeavored to elude the blows by taking up a position near the manger, but the horse being tied long turned and kept up his kicking. A workman hearing the noise ran to the barn and by virtue of a club induced the horse to cease. The elbow of Mr. Ladd was displaced and he was injured all the way from the ankle to the ribs.

The Walla Walla Statesman has this: A correspondent, writing from a neighboring town, says: "A girl eighteen years of age came to this place from Oregon some time since and engaged herself as a domestic in a quiet family. One day last week she was made a mother, and after concealing the paternity of the infant for some days finally stated that the father was the son of her employer, aged nineteen years. The youth was sent for and acknowledged the impeachment, offering to settle on a cash basis. This was agreed to, and all claim against him released on payment of the stipulated sum. The girl has returned to her home in Oregon, taking with her the evidence of her lover's perfidy and her own weakness."

THE EFFICACY OF PRAYER.

The Gilded Age tells how Uncle Dan'l and the children first saw a Mississippi steamboat. They were sitting in a row on a log in a warm evening, telling about spooks after the manner of southwestern negroes, when Uncle Dan'l said impressively: "Chil'en, dah's sumfin a comin'!" A deep coughing sound troubled the stillness way toward a wooded cape that jutted into the stream a mile distant. All in an instant a fierce eye of fire shot out from behind the cape and sent a long brilliant pathway quivering athwart the dusky water. The coughing grew louder and louder, the glaring eye grew larger and still larger, and glared wilder and still wilder. A huge shape developed itself out of the gloom, and from its tall duplicate horns dense volumes of smoke, starred and spangled with sparks, poured out and went tumbling away into the farther darkness. Nearer and nearer the thing came, till its long sides began to glow with spots of light which mirrored themselves in the river and attended the monster like a torchlight procession. "Chil'en," said Uncle Dan'l, "it's de Almighty! Git down on yo' knees!" [illegible] the noise and the lights drew nearer. Uncle Dan'l prayed: "O Lord, we's ben mighty wicked, an' we knows dat we 'zerve to go to de bad place, but good Lord, deah Lord, we ain't ready yit, we ain't ready—let dese po' chilen hab one mo' chance, jes' one mo' chance. Take de ole nigger if you's got to hab one. Good Lord, good deah Lord, we don't know whah you's a gwyne to, we don't know who you's got yo' eye on, but we knows by de way you's a comin', we knows by de way you's tiltin' along in yo' charyot o' fiah dat some po' sinner's a gwyne to ketch it. But good Lord, dese chilen don't b'long heah, dey's f'm Obedstown whah dey don't know nuffin, an' you knows yo' own sef dat dey ain't 'sponsible. Oh Lord, spah de little chilen, don't tear de little chilen away f'm dey frens, jes' let 'em off jes' dis once, and take it out o' de ole nigger. Heah I is, Lord, heah I is! De ole nigger's ready, Lord, ready—" Here the steamer whistle screeched fairly in the faces of the awe-struck group, and Uncle Dan'l, seizing as many of the children's hands as his two hands would hold, sped off toward the woods. Looking back they saw that the boat was rounding a point out of sight. "Well," said the relieved Uncle Dan'l, "dere's some folks dat say dey ain't no 'ficacy in prah. Dis chile would like to know whah we'd a ben now if it warn't fo' dat prah? Dat's it, dat's it."

A recent scene in the Chancery Court at Cincinnati: A lot of lawyers raising a never [illegible] berating racket, the Deputy Sheriff pounding on his desk with his jack-knife, the counsel shouting over the din in a vain effort to reach the perturbed ear of the amiable Chancellor, who looks helplessly and imploringly around. Suddenly he rises to the gravity of the occasion, raps with his gavel, and addresses the Deputy Sheriff thus: "Mr. Deputy." "Yes, sir," responds the functionary, starting as though he had been shot. "I want you," pursued the Chancellor, benignly scowling over his spectacles, "to try and keep these gentlemen quiet; if you can't, report them to me, and I'll fine them; if you don't report them, then I'll fine you." And there was a great calm.

THE TERRITORIES

A Walla Walla man writes to a friend that he is taking out $10 per day in the Swauk mine. He is working a claim below the discovery.

A letter from Colfax, W. T., says: There is a fair prospect for a mining excitement in these parts during the coming season, but let us not anticipate—time proves all things.

The bridge across the Palouse at Colfax, W. T., was completed last week. It is 150 feet long, main span sixty-five feet, built of heavy timbers, and will cost altogether in the neighborhood of $1,200.

The mills at Colfax, W. T., are running night and day. The first wheat was ground in December, but the mill was not completed until a few days ago. The proprietor, Mr. J. C. Davenport, is paying 40 cents per bushel for wheat and selling flour at $8 per barrel, and a finer article of flour is hard to produce.

Squirrels are becoming a great pest in some portions of Walla Walla valley. Last year a good deal of grain was destroyed by them in places. They have made their appearance already in great numbers, and war is being made on them with dogs, cats, traps and poison. But the dogs kill the cats and the poison kills the dogs, while the squirrels have too much sense to fool around traps. So far they are ahead.

The Walla Walla Union of the 28th ult. says: The price of cattle seems to be still lower now than ever in this valley. We hear of one lot of cows, two year olds and yearlings that sold at the prices of $12, $10 and $8 respectively. In addition to this the seller insured them all to live until the 1st of May, and obligates himself to make good any loss that may occur before that time. We thought a while since that the reason why cattle were selling so low was that the owners feared they might lose them. But now that the danger may be considered past, they sell still lower than ever. Stock can not get much lower unless people commence giving away. There is a possibility that the price may come up a little in a few months if outside buyers come in. Otherwise they will remain low, for the supply is far in excess of our home demand.

The Walla Walla Union knows a young man in that county who writes "Dr." before his name and "M. D." after it, who, after having to his own satisfaction mastered the science of medicine and surgery, has concluded to turn his attention to practical dentistry. In order to enable him to pull teeth without pain he procured the head of a sheep that had lately been slaughtered, and repaired to the brush along the bank of a creek. When thus secluded, as he supposed, from "prying eyes," he produced his forceps, gently smoothed the sheep's face with his hand, probably to inspire the patient with confidence, then opened its mouth, laid firmly hold of a molar with his tooth hooks, and gave a surge that brought out the tooth. He then stepped back, wiped his forceps on the seat of his pants, and said in the most soothing tones: "Madam, did it hurt you?" A man who was fishing in the creek, not twenty feet away, didn't hear what the sheep said.

PUBLIC OPINION

If the Republican party is to retain its strength, its platform and its pledged honor must not be violated or seriously threatened with violence. * * * The mere attempts [in Congress] to violate the platform have produced serious mischief, as may be seen in the apathy and distrust evinced in New Hampshire, and known by every intelligent observer to be more or less prevalent all over the country.—Detroit Post, (Rep.)

It may be necessary for the Republican party to be chastised and to carry very heavy crosses, but it occurs to us that Mr. Benjamin Butler is growing to be an insupportable burden, and if it comes to a question of survivorship—that is to say, whether the Republican party shall be sacrificed to exalt Mr. Butler, or Mr. Butler thrown overboard to save the party,—we are distinctly in favor of the latter course as most convenient and likely to bring the greatest good to the greatest number.—Illinois State Journal, (Rep.)

If after the exhibit which has now been made of the practices of Custom House officers, special agents and attorneys, Congress shall not abolish the whole system of moieties, then we may conclude that Congress is satisfied with the most disgraceful and atrocious revenue laws and practices that ever existed in a civilized or savage government, and that it wants the Custom House to be made a den of thieves, robbers and scoundrels, and integrity and good reputation made impossible to the importing merchant.—Cincinnati Gazette (Rep.)

Under the Republican Administration of Lincoln and Grant he [Charles Francis Adams] has served his country in positions of high responsibility, and so served it as to deserve the nation's respect and gratitude. Like Charles Sumner he would of course make no promises, but upon him as confidently as upon Sumner we could rely that he would never degrade the great office of Senator or prove false to the best standards of Massachusetts Republicanism. His election beyond that of any other man would convince the country that the old Bay State proposed hereafter to vindicate her professions by her practice, and it would reanimate the discouraged ardor of political and public virtue wherever it has been assailed.—Boston Advertiser.

The two next utterances are from Connecticut papers published on the eve of the election in that State:

No State can vote now and not either indorse or rebuke the Butler Simmons ring, the division contracts and other wrong doing in which the Government at Washington is involved. No State can separate its vote from an indorsement or rebuke of the Administration. It never has been done, from the days of Jackson to Grant. No voter can cast his ballot in favor of a man or a platform without favoring or opposing Grant and Congress, both led by Butler. It is impossible. The New Hampshire result is accepted at Washington as a rebuke, and Butler on the first day after was weaker, and one day after Connecticut vote he will be weaker still.—Hartford Post.

Butlerism is a sort of Yellow Jack. It is principally spread by political machinery. It will kill any party that does not get rid of it. It is simply dishonesty in the grossest form.—Hartford Courant.

OLD IRONSIDES.—The old Revolutionary frigate Constitution, which some months ago was brought to Philadelphia from Annapolis to be rebuilt, was drawn upon the stocks at the navy yard, for that purpose, recently. Having been dismantled, she was raised in the floating dry dock, and towed around to the south wharf. Here by means of the greatest force, she was pulled from the dock up on to the stocks. To accomplish this 600 men were employed, huge cables from a half dozen capstans and a complication of enormous pulleys leading out to the vessel. When the capstans were manned and the cables felt the tension upon them, the vessel moved gradually, though very slowly, from the dock up the well greased ways. The Constitution was decorated with the national bunting, and all the officials of the yard and many citizens were assembled to witness the operation. The Constitution will be entirely rebuilt for service as a school ship. Her model will not be changed, and no sound timbers will be removed. She will be refitted with all modern sailing appliances, and it is expected that, when completed, she will make a serviceable addition to the fleet.—N. Y. Times, March 7th.

THURSDAY MORNING APRIL 2, 1874

A DELICATE SUBJECT

It is a delicate matter but we cannot help speaking of it If somebody would take pity on the readers of the Bulletin and get Mr Holladay to employ an editor who could vary the programme a little we venture to say the person doing so would receive the thanks of that afflicted class who are daily dosed with repetitions of the same vapid balderdash, without even the redeeming quality of variety in the manner of its dishing up. The individual who turns the crank of the railway organ is as barren of ideas as a cabbage head Almost every day it is the same old song over and over, and over and over again the columns of the ring organ are filled up with charges against the OREGONIAN as a 'bolting organ,' an 'organ of malignity,' as a 'disorganizers' paper" as an enemy to the administration" and other such nonsense. We should think the fellow would get disgusted with such eructations himself The insipidness of his mouthings have come to be a subject of common remark on the street His friends actually turn red in the face when the Bulletin is mentioned, and 'wonder if the fellow never will think of anything else to say" It may be said that it is none of our business, and we suppose it is, since we care nothing about the references to the OREGONIAN, but really we have sometimes been ashamed with and for the friends of this poor mush brained lump of sterility whom they feel compelled to keep in the editorial chair because the Government pays his salary, which makes a saving of that amount to the concern So long as Scott had a few friends who did his thinking and a goodly share of his writing for him, he was able to maintain the reputation of a man of ordinary talents, but since he has lost this assistance, his want of capacity has become so manifest that few persons even among his political friends, now speak of his pretensions to ability except in tones of contempt Just think of a metropolitan journal made up exclusively of flat epithets and second hand billingsgate! The mendacity of the Bulletin, though bad enough in all conscience, is scarcely so grave a fault as its inanity—its utter shabbiness Scott even appears to have lost his old capacity for stealing editorials from Eastern papers

SOME STARTLING FIGURES

Some curious and very significant statistics have been brought to light through the agitation of the subject of compulsory education, which has been going on in different sections of the Republic lately If the figures are reliable (and we have no reason to suppose they are not), every State in the Union should be giving the education problem its earnest attention Illinois has enacted a law requiring that every child between five and sixteen years of age shall receive at least three months' instruction each year, and imposing a penalty of one dollar per month upon parents or guardians for neglecting to comply with the law If parents or guardians who are unable to pay the expense of procuring books for their children, these are furnished out of the public school fund

The objection sometimes urged against the compulsory system, that Government should confine its operation to the protection of person and property, and leave the training of the mind to the care of parents, societies, &c, is met in a way that appears quite unanswerable It is asserted that the State, for the protection of the liberties of its citizens and their property, is bound to educate its youth, that crime is in proportion to ignorance, that intellectual culture promotes honesty, industry, obedience to law And in support of this proposition the following startling figures are put forth

In the six New England States only 7 per cent of the inhabitants above 10 years can neither read nor write—yet 80 per cent of the crime in those States is committed by this small minority, in other words a person without education commits 53 times as many crimes as one with education In New York and Pennsylvania an ignorant person commit, on the average, 7 times the number of crimes that one who can read or write commits and in the whole United States the illiterate person commits 10 times the number of crimes that an educated one does

Looking to France as one of the most industrious and thrifty of the kingdoms of the Old World, we have these facts, From 1866 to 1869, one-half of the people of France were in a state of total ignorance Number arrested from 1867 to 1869 444 133 number unable to read, 442 194—which is 95 63 per cent. Average number of convicts from 1866 to 1868 18 643, number unable to read, 16 015—which is 87 28 per cent Average juvenile prisoners from 1866 to 1868 8,130, number unable to read 6,607—which is 81 14 per cent

At that time France had 36 000 000 of people and the proportions were In 18 000 000 of people unable to read and write there were 412,194 arrests—that is 1 in 41 In 18 000 000 of people commonly educated there were 1 939 arrests—that is 1 in 9,291 Proving the proportion of criminals in the uneducated classes to be 226 times as great as that of the educated classes

Persons of close observation and study upon the correlations between crime and illiteracy have generally been agreed that crime abounds more among ignorant than among educated people but few, we apprehend, have had any adequate idea of the actual extent to which crime and ignorance go hand in hand

Some time since a readable account of what it cost to bury the average Congressman at Washington was very extensively printed The bill footed up an aggregate of something like three thousand dollars People who take a lively interest in such lugubrious computations may be pleased to know that the lower classes can be put anywhere, anywhere in the world for a much smaller sum In July 1872, Mrs Abby B Mills mother in law of Hon Fernando Wood, was unfortunate enough to die in Washington Her son gave an undertaker carte blanche to get up the funeral regardless of expense In a few days he received a bill amounting to $ [illegible] He declined to pay this sum but offered to settle on a liberal basis ($1 000) rather than incur publicity in court says a local paper. The undertaker brought suit and a long and exciting trial followed Experts were summoned who in the heat of professional jealousy unveiled many of the secret extortions practiced in their sombre realm Our local authority says in lively terms "The testimony of all seemed corroborative of the fact that there was money in the job at $700 From the evidence it appeared that the undertaker and his assistant, on their return from New York City, took a jaunt through the Eastern States reveled in wines liquors cigars and other expensive refreshments had a high old time generally and charged for all these things in the bill The jury held that this was crowding the mourners," and the undertaker was awarded $1 400 He will make it up on those jurymen, some day. The defendant proposes to take an appeal

Mayor Colvin of Chicago was elected on a Sunday afternoon amusement platform by the German vote Several days since a committee of Crusaders waited on him and urged him to veto an ordinance passed by the Common Council allowing saloons to be kept open on Sunday The Mayor came up smiling in the language of the P R but firmly declined to accede to their request He stated that the repeal of the ordinance closing the saloons on Sunday was one of the main issues on which he was elected and he could not now honorably repudiate the promises he had made The ladies have not given up the fight although the Mayor seems to be impervious to their assaults His powers of endurance will be thoroughly tested if the Crusaders pursue him with half the fidelity of the Tipt[illegible]

It is probable that the Freeman bill to regulate freights and fares on the railways of California will be defeated Some of the new papers are accusing the Senate Committee which sat for some time with closed doors of listening too long and too attentively to bland Stanford There appear to be Constitutional objections to the bill however The Assembly passed it as quickly as possible and in its haste failed to detect these objectionable features The Sacramento Union if we rightly understand its position is inclined to believe that before any just and equitable legislation on the monopoly question can be had the State Constitution must be amended It therefore advocates the calling a Constitutional Convention at once

Eastern papers unite in paying handsome tributes to the bravery of Captain C J Brady, the third officer of the ill fated Atlantic who recently brought the Pennsylvania safely through a fearful hurricane in which the Captain and mates were lost A brief account of his gallant conduct was furnished by our dispatches several weeks since The Board of Directors of the American Steamship Company recently adopted a resolution of thanks and instructed the President of the Board to address to Captain Brady a letter expressing their gratitude and requesting him to accept one thousand dollars as a testimonial to his courage and worth

The will of Miss Sophia J Snow, of Boston bequeathing $85 000 to various charitable institutions concludes with this remarkable malediction "I forbid any person or persons to break this my last will and testament and whoever attempts to break it or breaks it may he she or they find no peace for mind or body in this world or the world to come"

The report of the Secretary of the New York State Grange shows that there are 180 subordinate Granges in that State The Independent Order of disaffected Granges has made no inroad on the membership or influence of the original Order of Patrons of Husbandry

Several New Orleans gentlemen have made a present to General Grant It is a picture of himself heroic size on horseback Senator West accompanied the gift with a speech "And subsequently they all partook of a lunch with the President"

The Washington Chronicle charges that the chief editor of the New York Sun lest he may be overtaken by just punishment for his crimes, fears to visit the capital of his own country

Hon John Minto sends to the Salem Statesman a card in which he declines the nomination for Representative, tendered him by the Marion County Republican Convention Next

The old stone mansion in which Benjamin West the artist, was born situated within 200 yards of Swarthmore College Pennsylvania was totally destroyed by fire March 16th

In yesterday's paper we were made to say there were less than twenty votes polled in all the precincts of Benton county at the Democratic primaries It was written thirty

A Washington correspondent says the impeachment of Judge Busteed seems assured and that the House Judiciary Committee will in a few days take a vote on his case

PASSAGE OF THE M'CRARY TRANSPORTATION BILL

Washington dispatches of March 26th say The House then proceeded to vote on the inter State railroad regulation bill, which passed—121 to 116 There are only slight modifications from the bill as originally reported by McCrary

McCrary's transportation bill was voted for by all the Pacific coast members except Houghton, who while approving its principles opposes its machinery He offered a substitute providing that railroad companies may fix their own rates, but giving aggrieved parties the right to bring suits against them in the United States courts with the burden of proof thrown on the railroad companies to show that the charge complained of is not unreasonable under a penalty of not less than $500 nor more than $5 000 for each overcharge Owing to the enforcement of the previous question this substitute could not be brought before the House for a vote

DESPERATE CONFLICT BETWEEN DETECTIVES AND ROBBERS—A special dispatch to the St Louis Democrat from Sedalia March 18 says Reports have reached here that the notorious Younger Brothers who are supposed to have been engaged in the Iowa railroad train robbery some months ago were attacked yesterday at Monegaw Springs St Clair county in this State by a party of detectives and a desperate conflict ensued in which one of the Younger Brothers and two detectives were killed

Thos Allen the President of the Iron Mountain Railroad has received a dispatch corroborating the special dispatch to the Democrat regarding the fight between the detectives and the Younger Brothers at Monegaw Springs The dispatches do not state what detectives were engaged in the affair but it is supposed that they were in the employ of Pinkerton

The appointment of Searight to be Surveyor General of Colorado has raised a tempest in certain circles in Washington and Pennsylvania that will not be easily allayed Thomas B Florence for a long time an ardent supporter of Mr Grant publishes a very pointed protest against the appointment in which he belabors both Grant and Cameron most unmercifully He charges that the appointment was the result of a compact entered into when Cameron was undergoing investigation for buying his seat in the Senate by which Cameron was to be whitewashed and Searight appointed to a lucrative public office Mr Florence alludes to the Senators as the clerks of Mr Grant by the grace of God and the railroads sitting in the Senate chamber

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA INVESTIGATION—A Washington dispatch of March 26th says The District of Columbia Investigating Committee this morning examined Colonel Saffold in regard to the measurement work on Government property He said he would stake his reputation as an engineer on the accuracy of his measurement, and said $10 000 worth of flagging had been laid Wilson of the Committee, remarked that he could discover no work of the kind A recess was then taken

WHEAT EXPORTS OF OREGON

The San Francisco Bulletin alludes to the rapid growth of Oregon's commercial interests in the following words

A few years ago not a single cargo of wheat was exported from Oregon The Commercial Reporter estimates the exports of wheat and flour from the Columbia river, from July 1 1873 to 1874 at 90 000 tons and other 10 000 Here are no less than 100 cargoes of produce sent out of the Columbia river in a single year [illegible] The wheat buyers of San Francisco pay from 20 cents to 30 cents per cental more than buyers pay in Portland [illegible] Liverpool brings about the average prices of California wheat. It costs however about $ per ton to transport wheat from Portland to San Francisco Ships coming to this port with cargoes prefer to make up return cargoes at the same port. One hundred thousand tons of produce shipped from the Columbia river in a single year where only a short time ago not a single cargo was exported is a fact worth noting because it shows a rapid growing commerce in a State whose interests are interblended with our own Much of this produce went to San Francisco and was here transhipped But every year the number of ships going into the Columbia river for export cargoes is rapidly increasing This northern commerce is in its infancy but it has already attained a magnitude which foreshadows its future greatness

AN OUTBREAK IN INDIA—A dispatch from London of March 27th says A Bombay letter says there is great excitement there over the trouble between the lower class of Arabs and African Mussulmans and Parsees growing out of a book written by a Parsee in which was a reflection on the character of Mahomet A number of the former attacked the Parsees burning houses and committing every kind of depredation The city authorities seem scarcely equal to the emergency, and the troops in and around the city are not in sufficient numbers to preserve order

THE ASTORIA—The incessant clatter of hammers on the boiler of the tug Astoria denotes that the work of repairing still goes on Several sections of the boiler have already been removed [illegible] plates will soon be exchanged for strong new pieces of iron Some time will be required to overhaul the boiler as it is the intention of the owners to make it as powerful as when first steam was raised From appearances three or four weeks will be required to complete repairs on the boiler Meantime the hull of the tug is being overhauled She has been recaulked tightened up and will shortly be treated to a new coat of paint The engine and steam connections are also receiving attention at the hands of the machinist Carpenters are busily engaged in putting a new frame work in which will rest the ponderous boiler One month's time or more will be required before steam can again be raised on board the tug

REHEARSALS—Rehearsals are being nightly held at the Emmet Guard Armory by a number of amateur performers who contemplate producing in a few weeks a theatrical play at Oro Fino Theater This entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Catholic Social Union and the proceeds are to be donated to the Library Fund A dramatical version of Scott's Lady of the Lake will be produced and also a farce Great pains are being taken to place the plays on the stage in good style Amateurs are entering into the work with a will and determination and every appearance gives us assurance that the forthcoming entertainment will be all that the most critical and fastidious taste could reasonably expect or desire

YOUTHFUL OFFENDERS—Two young men named Henry Williams and [illegible] aged respectively about nineteen years were arrested a few days ago charged with larceny These young men it appears are strangers in the city On Monday they entered the pawnbroker shop of Mr O'Shea and began to examine two gold rings, ostensibly for the purpose of purchasing them They failed to purchase the rings or to return them either at appearance The rings were missed by the owner and were afterwards offered for sale at a jewelry store in the city From all the suspicious circumstances the young men were arrested This morning the case will be inquired into at Police Court

CITY.

DISCHARGED.—A few days since a Spaniard named Jose Marieno was arrested by the U S Marshal for peddling cigars and tobacco about the city without a license Marieno was brought before the United States Commission er yesterday for examination The following is the history of the case as elicited during the examination More than a year ago Marieno left Havana with a considerable quantity of cigars and tobacco and came direct to New York. While he was in that city he made application and received from the Second District a license to peddle his stock all over the United State Armed with this authority he came to San Francisco and began to sell cigars and tobacco This it soon came to the ears of the authorities and Marieno was arrested for a supposed violation of the United States laws However when the examination commenced the Spaniard produced his authority in Court and he was thereupon discharged from custody Soon after Marieno came to this city Failing to profit by his late experience in San Francisco, or most probably ignorant of the laws of this country the Spaniard began to peddle his stock without presenting himself to the Revenue Collector and producing his license certificate As might reasonably be expected under the circumstances he was again arrested by the authorities But on examination before Commissioner Wilcox, it was found that he was duly authorized to peddle his stock and was released at once from custody

TUG ASTORIA—The incessant clatter of hammers on the boiler of the tug Astoria denotes that the work of repairing still goes on Several sections of the boiler have already been removed and the old and rust-eaten plates will soon be exchanged for strong new pieces of iron Some time will be required to overhaul the boiler, as it is the intention of the owners to make it as powerful as when first steam was raised From appearances, three or four weeks will be required to complete repairs on the boiler Meantime, the hull of the tug is being overhauled She has been recaulked tightened up, and will shortly be treated to a new coat of paint. The engine and steam connections are also receiving attention at the hands of the machinists. Carpenters are busily engaged in putting in new frame work in which will rest the ponderous boiler One month's time or more will be required before steam can again be raised on board the tug

REHEARSALS—Rehearsals are being nightly held at the Emmett Guard Armory by a number of amateur performers who contemplate producing in a few weeks a theatrical play at Oro Fino Theater This entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Catholic Social Union, and the proceeds are to be donated to the Library Fund A dramatized version of Scott's "Lady of the Lake" will be produced and also a farce Great pains are being taken to place these plays on the stage in good style. Amateurs are entering into the work with a will and determination and every appearance gives assurance that the forthcoming entertainment will be all that the most critical and fastidious taste could reasonably expect or desire.

YOUTHFUL OFFENDERS.—Two young men named Henry Williams and L S Lyman aged respectively about nineteen years were arrested a few days ago charged with larceny These young men, it appears, are strangers in the city On Monday they entered the pawn broker shop of Mr O'Shea and began to examine two gold rings, ostensibly for the purpose of purchasing them They failed to purchase the rings, or to return them either, it appears. These rings were missed by the owner and were afterwards offered for sale at a jewelry store in the city From all the suspicious circumstances, the young men were arrested This morning the case will be inquired into at Police Court

WEATHER REPORT.—From the records of the U S Signal Station of Observation Portland Oregon, April 1 1874

	7 A M	2 P M	9 P M
Ther[illegible]ter	48°	70° 5'	55°
Wind, direction	N W	E	E
velocity miles pr hour	1	13	3
Weather	Fair	Clear	Fair
Rainfall			None

In our Monthly Weather Report, published yesterday, one or two typographical blunders occurred The coldest day was given at 17° when it should have been the 17th of the month The warmest day was the 27th of the month, instead of 25°—the mean temperature for those days being 38.5 and 55 5 respectively

CITY RIFLES—ELECTION.—Last evening the second annual election of officers was held, Major E Cahalin presiding The new officers are, C C Phillips, Captain; H D Chapman First Lieutenant, J M Brittingham Second Lieutenant T J Nelson, First Sergeant W Warnekros Second Sergeant; Wm Church, Third Sergeant G F Hankins Fourth Sergeant, T M McLaughlin Fifth Sergeant J H Burningham, Secretary Wm Church Treasurer The election passed off with perfect harmony and at the conclusion the members "refreshed" after the customary style

GONE INTO EFFECT.—As some further and very important provisions of the game law went into effect yesterday, we advise our sportsmen of the fact, lest some of them should be unwittingly found in violation of the act It is unlawful to take, kill, destroy or offer for sale any wild swan, mallard summer or wood widgeon, sprig tail teal, spoon bill or black duck, during the months of April May June or July It is unlawful to take kill destroy or offer for sale any grouse pheasant or sage hen before the first of July or any quails or partridges before the first of August

CRUELTY TO AN ANIMAL.—The case of Mr Plunder, the man who was arrested a few days ago for cutting a dog in a cruel manner, which was engaged in fighting with his own, came up in Police Court yesterday morning On hearing all the evidence in the case, the Court held the defendant to answer the charge before the Grand Jury at the next term of Circuit Court. His bonds were fixed at $100 The required securities were given and the defendant released.

MACHINERY READY.—The machinery and boiler for the little propeller which now lies at the foot of F street and is owned by Mr Jas Williams, is nearly finished Several carpenters have been at work for some time on board this craft, and everything is ready for the reception of the boiler and engines In the course of a week or so the boat will be ready to make the trial trip As yet the propeller has not received her name

RETURNED.—Miss Jennie Macnamara has returned. The lady is so busily engaged in unpacking the new goods and marking the same that she will not be able to announce the spring opening for some days She has something entirely new in the millinery line—that the ladies may depend on—and a new case of goods besides All will be made known in a few days

HELD TO ANSWER—The examination of William Murphy charged with desertion from the ship Albor, took place yesterday before United States Commissioner Wilcox After hearing the case the Commissioner held the defendant to answer the charge Bail was fixed in the case as the defendant was unable to furnish bonds. He was remanded to jail

OPENING DAY—NEW MILLINERY GOODS.—Mrs Geo H Clarke will open to-day the new stock of millinery goods, with which she has just returned from San Francisco. Her stock comprises a very large assortment of the very latest spring styles [illegible] to Clarke & Henderson's

COMES UP.—This morning [illegible] J H Mabbott will come up for examination before the U S Commissioner Mabbott was arrested a few days ago charged with having refused to obey orders from his superior officers and also for being guilty of mutinous conduct

TO EXCHANGE PULPITS.—We learn that Rev J D Eaton pastor of the First Congregational Church of this city, and Rev P S Knight of Salem, will exchange pulpits on Sunday next.

W. R. T. Co's BOATS.—Boats on this line leave semi-weekly as will be observed by the new schedule which appears among the advertisements.

TOWED DOWN.—Yesterday the brig Orient was towed down to the lower sawmill where a deck load of lumber will be taken on board The bark Mattie Macleay was also towed down the river where the remainder of her cargo for Honolulu will be completed

CHANGES.—The traveling public should note the new time table on the west side railroad The trains leave at [illegible] P M instead of 7 30 A M as heretofore

TO WALLULA.—Passengers by the Onedia to-morrow can go through to Wallula the boats having commenced running to that point

While a number of persons were quietly looking on the proceedings of the Crusaders at the corner of First and Morrison streets yesterday from a wagon the driver suddenly started off affording the occupants an involuntary ride and making the passengers appear rather ridiculous

Dr McKay and Col Jos Meek arrived in this city on Tuesday from east of the mountains The former gentleman has visited the city for the purpose of making the necessary business arrangements to give our citizens one or more entertainments with his Indian braves At present Donald McKay the famous Indian scout and hunter who proved of such invaluable service during the late Modoc difficulties is at Warm Spring Reservation completing all necessary arrangements and training his no less celebrated scouts This morning Dr McKay will leave for the Dalles and from thence proceed to Warm Springs where he is to be joined by his brother and the other scouts The company will then come down to the Dalles and give a performance there and from thence will visit Portland From Dr McKay we understand that two performances will be given in this city There will be in the company Dr McKay Donald McKay, 11 scouts and Col Joseph Meek After remaining in Portland several days, the company will proceed to California It has not yet been determined whether the company will take the steamer directly for San Francisco or proceed overland Performances will be given in San Francisco and then the company will start East. It is the intention now not to give any performances after leaving San Francisco until reaching Washington The company will then visit all the principal cities of the East after which they will start westward, giving performances along the route home The company will arrive in Portland in about twelve days from date Our citizens will be gratified at the prospect of being able to witness this novel and unique performance

"WAR TO THE KNIFE."

Yesterday a number of ladies were again on the streets and visiting the various saloons of the city There was rather an increase in the number and certainly no abatement of purpose to carry out the object of the crusade More opposition was encountered yesterday than on any preceding day assuming in one instance the form of violence At Mr Moffett's saloon—which the delegation visited twice during the day—the ladies were treated in the most indecorous manner and even subjected to rude treatment at the hands of some of the crowd Gongs were violently beaten to drown the voices of the ladies and fire crackers strewn on the sidewalks under their feet to frighten them off This was to all appearances at the instigation of the proprietor But the ladies stood their ground valiantly At one time a general row seemed imminent, and the police found it necessary to interfere and ask the ladies to retire and subsequently to disperse the crowd in order to avoid serious difficulty We understand that the ladies propose to renew the contest to day

HAD HIS LIQUOR RETURNED.—The following appears under a Boston date of March 18th In the early part of February several thousand dollars worth of liquors wines &c were seized from George Young's Hotel and Young was sentenced to pay a fine of $7 000 and go to the House of Correction for three months He appealed and to day the case came before the Superior Court which the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty and by a special verdict ordered the liquors to be returned

In Holland, quinine has recently been administered with great effect in cases of small pox German physicians claim to have used it successfully for several years past against that fearful disease It must be administered however, at an early stage of the disease and in very large doses to counteract the effect of the smallpox poison It must also be very pure and the complaint is getting more general that very little of the quinine sold in the market is genuine

Ask Them!

An advertisement of a medicine however candid and conscientious it may be, does not always carry conviction with it The public know to their sorrow that the boastful claims put forth in behalf of many so called remedies are literally a delusion and a snare Probably the best use therefore that can be made of the space devoted to this notice of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is to invite those who read it to inquire of the parties that have tested the curative and preventive properties of the article what they think of it We earnestly request all doubters to ascertain from such of their friends and neighbors as have taken this standard tonic and alterative as a protection against malarious disease or as a cure for indigestion liver complaint constipation rheumatism nervous debility headache low spirits languor biliousness &c what Hostetter's Bitters has done for them There is no testimony so trustworthy as that which is the result of personal experience

"HOUSEKEEPER" OF HEALTH.

The liver being the great depurating or blood cleansing organ of the system—set this great housekeeper of our health at work, and the foul corruptions which gender in the blood and rot out as it were the machinery of life are gradually expelled from the system For this purpose Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with very small daily doses of Dr Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets are pre eminently the articles needed They cure every kind of humor from the worst scrofula to the common pimple blotch or eruption Great eating ulcers kindly heal under their mighty curative influence Virulent blood poisons that lurk in the system are by them robbed of their terrors, and by their persevering and somewhat protracted use the most tainted systems may be completely renovated and built up anew. Enlarged glands tumors and swellings dwindle away and disappear under the influence of these great resolvents

HIS LAST HOURS ON EARTH—SCENES AND INCIDENTS AT HIS DEATH

The annexed account of the death of Senator Sumner will be read with interest. It is written by Major Ben Perley Poore Private Secretary to Mr Sumner and Washington correspondent of the Boston Journal. The narrative is written from personal observation

THE BATTLE FLAG RESOLUTION

The recent action of the Massachusetts Legislature was of the deepest interest to him and he read with evident pleasure letters from friends at home narrating the progress of the rescinding resolution. He declined however to supply the material for any defense of his action in presenting the battle flag resolution beyond what had been published and waited like a Senator of ancient Rome for justice. I wish that occasion could have been given him, not to defend himself, for he needed no defense, but to have explained the motives which prompted his original presentation of the battle-flag resolution the indorsements which it received and how he came to offer it again, with his civil rights bill to square off his work. How fortunate it was that he was spared to hear on the last day that he was permitted to visit the Senate chamber his colleague present the rescinding resolution which proved that he still enjoyed the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens and constituents in the good old Commonwealth of Massachusetts'

Soon after the rescinding resolution had been read and he had received the congratulations of a number of Senators, Hon. Henry L Pierce came into the Senate chamber and had a conversation with him on the money investigations in which he took a deep interest as he did in the exposure of every wrong as the best way to secure its rectification. Before Mr Pierce left Mr Sumner invited him to dine socially, at 6 o clock and then wrote a note to me extending the invitation

When I arrived at Mr Sumner's house at 6 o clock, I found him in his library diligently engaged in finishing his letters for the mail and chatting, as he wrote with Hon Henry L Pierce who was sitting near him. When he had sealed and directed his last letter—the last that he ever wrote—he began to talk about a proposition to give Baez a complimentary dinner in Boston giving the reasons which prompted him to disapprove of it. There was then some conversation on the Santo Domingo affair but neither then, nor at any time since his return from Europe after the last Presidential election, to my knowledge did he speak harshly or unpleasantly of President Grant

THE LAST DINNER

The dinner was plain and substantial seasoned with general conversation on the prominent questions of the day especially the developments before the House Committee of Ways and Means. Mr Pierce narrated several incidents which had occurred during his recent visit to Boston, and a couple of hours passed quickly away. I was expecting to receive New Hampshire election news at the news bureau of the Boston Journal, and when as the clock struck eight I excused myself and rose to leave Mr Sumner said "Sit down a few moments, I want to talk to you about my health. I have had a return of my old enemy, the angina pectoris'" He then narrated his attack of Sunday night, which the anodyne supplied him by Dr Brown Sequard had failed to quiet, the pain keeping him awake until after he had heard the clock in his hall strike four. Next he described the return of the agony on Tuesday night when he sent for Dr Joseph Tabor Johnson, who made a hypodermic injection of morphine which afforded him relief. He then asked Dr Johnson to carefully consult his heart and the doctor pronounced it free from disease. This said Mr Sumner, is additional proof that I am not a sufferer from heart disease but from the result of the injuries which I received, which have affected my spine and the network of nerves indirectly connecting the spinal cord with the heart. How little I thought as I listened to his words, how soon they would have a melancholy interest for the public'

Mr Pierce remained after I left, and had quite a talk with Mr Sumner on matters of mutual interest.

THE LAST ATTACK

Soon after he went away, Mr Sumner felt a return of pain, and sent for Dr Joseph Taber Johnson, who came at once accompanied by his brother A B Johnson who was Mr Sumner's private secretary when he was assaulted and who has always enjoyed his esteem and confidence. On their arrival at Mr Sumner's study they found him walking to and fro like a man suffering from the toothache, or any other severe pain. He welcomed the doctor and asked for relief by a hypodermic injection of morphine. Dr Johnson replied that he must undress and go to bed, to which Mr Sumner at first objected but finally consented apologizing all the while for giving so much trouble. The first injection not producing the desired effect, Mr Sumner asked for and received a second one, and Mr A B Johnson bathed his feet in warm mustard water. Soon the pain apparently ceased and Mr Sumner said in a pleasant tone, 'I've turned the corner and am on the road to sleep. Do go home, Doctor and you (Johnson) go to bed

Dr Joseph Taber Johnson and his brother retired to the next room, Mr Sumner's study, where they were soon gratified by hearing his full and regular breathing as he enjoyed a quiet sleep. In about half an hour they heard him start and groan as if in pain, and soon found that a second attack had occurred, with more severity than the first one, which was soon followed by great prostration. Dr Lincoln was at once sent to for consultation, but he was not at home, and Dr W P Johnson came, with Mr Samuel Hooper, Mr H L Pierce, and the writer, who had been summoned

Meanwhile, Dr Joseph Taber Johnson had administered brandy and carbonate of ammonia, and had, with the help of Mr Wormley, applied bottles of hot water and mustard poultices to almost every part of his body, hoping thereby to produce reaction. Dr Johnston, on his arrival, approved what had been done, but decided that there was no hope of recovery. Mr Sumner gradually sank giving but few evidences of consciousness during the night. His pulse was several times so weak as to be scarcely perceptible. At times he dozed for a few minutes, then the pain would arouse him and he would exclaim "My book, my book. I should not regret this had I finished my book" This idea he repeated over and over again in slightly varied language during the night.

At 6 A M Dr Joseph Taber Johnson telegraphed to Dr Brown Sequard, urging him to hasten there. He also requested Surgeon General Barnes and Dr W S Lincoln to meet him for consultation, and they were at the patient's beside at 8 o clock. The result of their consultation banished all hope of Mr Sumner's recovery. They stated in more professional language than I can use that the nerves around the heart were so affected that the heart was unable to use its full force in expelling the blood into the arteries so that it became stagnant and poisoned. Every exertion was used to restore warmth and consciousness, with such partial success at times as to encourage his friends with hopes of his recovery, but the experienced medical practitioners saw no hope. There was also a constant collection of mucus in his throat which caused a rattling respiration and at times he expectorated bloody mucus

Rev Dr Sunderland the Chaplain of the Senate called in the morning but the suffering patient was in no condition to talk with him. The reverend gentleman retired to the library with several of the Senator's friends to offer appropriate devotions. He first read selections from the 14th chapter of John and then fervently prayed that it might be the Divine will to spare him but if it must prove otherwise that he might be supported in his last hours by the presence of his Father and his God

Meanwhile the sufferer was sinking gradually without feeling entirely conscious of his weakness or exhaustion. He would sleep for a few moments at a time and then wake up turn over and seek rest in a new position frequently exclaiming "Oh I am very tired. Can I not have relief'

At 10 o clock Judge Hoar who was with him sent this message to Speaker Blaine

"There is no material change in Mr Sumner's condition. His physicians think him sinking. I think he will survive your session of to-day

E R HOAR'

Soon after this, Mr Sumner slept a little and had his consciousness perfect, except when in a doze until ten minutes before his death. Three quarters of an hour before his death, Judge Hoar, who sat holding his hand, said "I wish we could do something to make your hands warm,' to which he answered. "You never will." He several times commended the civil rights bill to Judge Hoar saying "Don't let the bill be lost" and was gratified by the Judge's assurances that he would look after it. About ten minutes before his death, as Judge Hoar was sitting at his bedside he turned toward him and gave him this message for their mutual friend Ralph Waldo Emerson at Concord. Said he "Tell Emerson how much I love and revere him." The Judge replied "Emerson said of you that he never knew so white a soul." Mr Sumner turned over in bed and [illegible] Just then Mr H[illegible] Mr Wormley [illegible] Mr Sumner [illegible] Mr Hooper [illegible] his hand [illegible] Those were his last words

Mr Hooper and Judge Hoar soon afterward left the room thinking that Mr Sumner was sleeping. [illegible] seized with a violent spasm [illegible] When Judge Hoar returned he found them bathing his face. The Judge took his hand [illegible] his mouth as if to speak but the spirit had departed. Those present at his death were Judge Hoar, A B Johnson, Dr Joseph Taber Johnson, Mr Wormley, Mr Downing and the writer. When all thought him dead Judge Hoar relinquished his grasp of his hand which fell motionless and Dr Johnson placing his ear to his heart announced that it had ceased to beat. Just then Montgomery Blair and Senator Schurz entered the room. All present were greatly affected and when the sad tidings reached the crowd in the parlors down stairs and the crowd around the outer door nearly all wept, especially the many colored people present

Dr Brown Sequard who arrived by the [illegible] o clock train immediately proceeded to the house of Mr Sumner but he was just too late. He then drove to the house of Dr Johnson the attending physician whom he found himself suddenly prostrated with a severe attack of disease of the heart induced by the grave responsibilities and physical exhaustion of the last twenty four hours. The other attending physician was called and a consultation being then had upon the condition of Mr Sumner at the time of his death the council were agreed that the violent spasm immediately preceding death was accompanied by angina pectoris a rupture of the heart that the serum was rapidly distributing itself throughout the body that in fact, mortification had already begun. It was therefore determined that the body should be immediately embalmed

Arrived at the house the embalmers found that the body had already become greatly swollen and disfigured and it was feared that the decomposition had been so rapid that the features might not be restored and that a cast could not be taken. As the process proceeded however, the color gradually came back, and it is now anticipated that a mourning nation may be again permitted to look upon the features of that classic face. The hair was cut in the usual manner and each lock was sacredly preserved. At midnight the face had regained its familiar form. Colonel French the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate with a detail of Capitol police, guard the house, and have charge of the body. If it can possibly be done Mr Powers, a son of the celebrated sculptor will make a cast of the face

In local finances the fact is remarked that the supply of available funds is increasing—more however from receipts from the interior of our own State than from outside sources some of the money disbursed for grain last fall and early winter now finding its way back to our city to pay for goods to make up spring stocks of the country merchants. The demand for loanable funds seems to be wanting in the activity usually incident to this season of the year

From the East comes the gratifying intelligence that there is a considerable change for the better in the finances of the Government—the receipts of the Treasury in the revival of business or from some other cause leading the Secretary of the Treasury to the conclusion that there is less necessity now than there seemed to be in December to urge increased taxation or a further increase of the public debt. He has not found it necessary to draw upon the forty four million reserve for some time and outstanding legal tenders have consequently remained at $382,000 000. The following were the customs receipts for the week ending March [illegible] th New York $2 392 109 73, Philadelphia $23[illegible] 12 Boston $382 61[illegible] 21 Baltimore $60[illegible] 48 New Orleans $87,21[illegible] 21 total $3 179 8[illegible]

General Schenck who lays much claim to financial ability is of the opinion that it will take some time to inspire confidence abroad in our unknown enterprises. Foreign capital will exact a severe and perhaps, a long penance for our short comings in the past. It is not to be disguised that the reputation for honesty of the American people abroad is just now at quite a low ebb. The recent failures of a number of our railroads to pay their coupons have caused much indignation and not a little distress in Germany and Holland. Committees have been formed in various cities and unless arrangements are made satisfactory to the German first mortgage bondholders the Kansas Pacific Rockford Midland St Paul and Pacific and other roads will soon be sold. Such a step will do immense injury to American credit in Europe and ought to teach us a valuable lesson concerning the evils of loose or foolhardy financial management. Character alone is credit

Grain and Provision Reports.

Chicago elevators at the commencement of business on Monday March 16th contained [illegible] bushels of grain embracing [illegible] bushels of wheat 2 66[illegible] bushels of corn 880 [illegible] bushels of oats, 42 946 bushels of rye and 247 029 bushels of barley against 7 448 [illegible] bushels one week ago and 10 [illegible] 990 bushels at this period last year

Milwaukee warehouses at the close of business on Saturday March 14th, contained 2 [illegible] bushels of wheat 111 [illegible] bushels of corn 6[illegible] 711 bushels of oats 66 110 bushels of rye, and 2[illegible] 611 bushels of barley

New York warehouses contain 1 301 000 bushels of wheat 664 000 bushels of corn [illegible] bushels of oats 47 000 bushels of rye [illegible] 000 bushels of barley and 23 000 bushels of malt

The visible supply of grain in the United States and Canadas March 7th was Wheat 1[illegible] bushels corn [illegible] bushels oats [illegible] bushels barley 893 5[illegible] bushels rye [illegible] bushels

The exports of breadstuffs and provisions from the ports of Portland Me New York Philadelphia Baltimore Boston and New Orleans for the week ending March 11th were Flour [illegible] barrels wheat [illegible] bushels corn [illegible] bushels pork [illegible] barrels bacon [illegible] pounds lard [illegible] pounds

Latest crop advices from Europe show that our great competitor in supplying the Western part of that continent—Russia—is still an important factor in determining rates for breadstuffs and that the lack of means of transport and shortness of the wheat crop in some governments have alone prevented the Black Sea supply from bearing with more weight on the market. The crop in Europe last year was an exceptionally poor one and while a larger area is being planted in this country, it is a matter of vital necessity to find means of placing our products abroad at a price to compete with supplies from other quarters. The prospect for planting in Europe are fair the weather being mild and favorable for spring sowing. Should France Germany and other countries be able to enter the field as exporters as is very likely the prices for American wheat will have to be regulated [illegible] quotations there

Miscellaneous

There are at present eight disengaged vessels at San Francisco. Their aggregate tonnage is [illegible] tons

The prospect for the fruit crop in California it is said was never better than at present. The same may be said of Oregon, but we are not so sure of no damaging frosts

The cotton trade—an important element of our national material prosperity—continues brisk and active. The net receipts at all the United States ports during the past week were 79 660 bales against 82 902 for the same week last year total receipts this year, to date 3,238,136 against 2 870 366 exports for the week 104,252 against 73,4[illegible] total exports to date, 1,818 665 against 1,637 [illegible], stock at all the United States ports, 722,777 against 552,526 stock in all the interior towns 122,171 against 106,948, stock at Liverpool, 736,000, against 632 000; stock of American cotton afloat for Great Britain 310 000 against [illegible] 000

The people of the United States imported from January 1st to March 1st merchandise to the amount of $[illegible] In the corresponding period of last year the amount was $8[illegible] 621. The difference nearly twelve millions. The exports this year have amounted to [illegible] last year up to the same date they were [illegible] The increase is [illegible] Thus the trade in our favor this year over that of last year amount to [illegible] fifteen millions.
